We are informed that another proposition will be offered the Magistrates of this county today, at their regular meeting as a Court of Claims, for their submission to the voters of the county, looking in the direction of offering aid to the Kentucky Military R. R. to build through our county.

We call your attention to a new enterprise in the city. Messrs. Groves are here to renovate mattresses, feathers, etc., and upholster and repair furniture in a most like manner. They guarantee all work executed to them. They are located at John Samuels' old stand, corner Main and Broadway.

The Ninth Street Tobacco Warehouse, of Louisville, was last Wednesday incorporated as a stock company, under the title of the Meguir, Harris Co. Mr. P. Meguir was made President, H. D. Giles Vice President, J. G. Harris, Sec'y, and Treas. R. A. Campbell and Tandy Quisenberry are among the directors. Mr. Quisenberry has lately been Inspector for the market, but on account of ill health and much to the regret of buyers and sellers alike, he was forced to resign his position. He now goes into this house and will take with him a very strong following.

W. R. Nunneley has leased the store room of Tyler & Apperson in their stone front block, has had everything newly painted and papered, and is putting in a choice stock of groceries, fruits, vegetables, etc. If you want nice fruit for anything, give him an order and it will be nice. He has also gone into a contract for a number of months to have sent to him the selected portions of beef, by which he has no refuse meat to work off on his friends. He keeps other meats in the way of lamb, (not mutton), sheep, old ham, half dried beef, etc. He has a perfect poultry equipage, and if you want to buy or sell chickens, ducks, or geese, call on him. He says he wants to buy some choice fruit, so it you have some on your farm, take it to him.

New styles, new cloth and a fit guaranteed by Hurley & Leach, the Broadway tailors. 7-21

W. F. Hibler sold a lot on the east side of Harrison Avenue, to Mr. E. E. Jones. The lot is 55x219 ft., and the price paid $700. Mr. Jones will at once build a residence on his purchase.

The Bath Company F. & L. U. will meet at Fassett School House, on Flat Creek, on Friday, Oct. 2. Members from adjoining counties will be welcomed.

J. D. Wilson, Pres.

Taken Up as Stray.

Two red steers, 4 to 6 years old; will weigh about 1250 lbs. each, and has marks of being worked, which the owner can have by proving property and paying charges.

HENDERSON PRINTER.

Boat Bros', speedy mail, Holly, got a record of 2:31 at Cynthiana, last week. Tracy got a mark of 2:20. Knightwood, who is speedier than Tracy, would have been close to 2:20, but for a slight strain he got rolling in his stall. He will be all right in a few days and all three of them are expected to get still lower marks at the Montgomery Association trials on the 25th inst.

Dunlop's week trade review again bears a very encouraging tone. Improvement is reported in nearly every line of business, and the prospects for the coming season are unusually bright. The crops of the West are all in good condition, and what is moving rapidly at good prices. There is a great deal of money pouring into the South for cotton. Breadstuffs are at easy prices, and export shipments very heavy. The money market is reported generally easier.

Celestine, the three-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cornell, died on Friday. The little one, named for its mother, had been lost a very frail flower from its birth, and the tenderest care was needed to keep the spark of life in the little frame, even so long as it was left to them. God gives us these little ones, and leaves them to us, and it is just enough for them to give their tiny fingers among our heart-strings, and then takes them from us, when the parting seems the very ecstasy of agony. We may not why this is so, but we do know, "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

On Saturday morning the wife of Mr. Lee Burns, near Morefield, awoke about three o'clock and found her husband had died. Hearing a noise outside the house she hurried out and found him in a dying condition, presumably from a pistol shot by his own hands, as his pistol lay beside him. No cause can be assigned for the act, as his domestic relations were pleasant, and his financial affairs apparently in good shape. Mr. Burns was a well-to-do and highly respected farmer, and a wide circle of friends are filled with sorrow at the sad death. A bereaved wife, father and mother have the sympathy of the entire community.

Go to Harry Campbell if you want a stylish suit of clothes. 7-21

Bring in your job, printing. First-class city work at country prices. Morrow & Johnson, over Traders' Deposit Bank.

HURLEY & LEACH.

7-21 The Broadway Tailors.

George Bros., who have come to our city prepared to do all kinds of upholstering, renovating feathers, repairing mattresses, etc., are highly recommended as men who thoroughly understand their business, and are capable and honest. Call on them if you want honest work done by honest men.

The gentleman, young or old, who desires a stylish suit, can nowhere be so well accommodated as at Harry Campbell's, the well-known merchant tailor. Mr. Campbell makes a study of his customers' tastes, and is very careful to cater to them. Therefore, he is always full of orders from those who know what a tasteful fitting suit is.

John I. Coleman, who for several years past has been connected with the N. N. & M. V. road, at this point, has resigned his position, to accept the agency of the Kentucky Midland, at Frankfort. John is a first-class railroad man, and enjoys the confidence and respect of all who know him. We hope he will become a veritable railroad nigger some day.

To the Ladies.

We have a button machine with which we can make any size button a lady wants and cover it with material to match the dress. There is no more substantial or neater button made than we can turn out, and at a cost not greater than they can be had from the jobber.

Respectfully,

HURLEY & LEACH.

7-21 The Broadway Tailors.

Few persons have any idea of the queer names of some of the out-of-the-way post-offices in the State. One of our inquisitive reporters, in looking over Mr. Wanamaker's Blue Book the other day, jotted down the following: Eighty Eight, Seventy Six, Goforth, Squarrie, Home, Utility, Wide-awake, Headquarters, Nonesuch, Skylight, Bae, Plak, Holy Cross, Goodnight, Zero, Phil, Small, Quail, Alone, Toin, Nancy and Alex.

One route tries to take in all the boys and girls in the family. It goes from Coal Run by Joe, John, Gubare, Thomas, Pleasant and Andy to Inez. Another is from Dwarf to Trouble-some. There are also Gunpowder, Wildcat, Tinsney, Beef Head, Cushman, Ned, Fed, Jamboree, Snow, Nehemiah, Quail, Relief, Praise, Paw, Paw, Whynot, Partridge, Sassafras, Viper, Jesse, Arthur, Doorway, Gray Hawk, Olds, Add, Vox, Lot, Tip Top, Pig and Dot.

School Notes.

Our efficient County Superintendent, Mr. John E. Groves, has commenced his round of visits to the schools again, and his reports will be coming in week by week.

Mr. Groves has endeavored to do his whole duty. He has evinced a lively interest in his work, and devoted much more time to it than the one less in love with it than he has shown himself to be. He has not only endeavored to raise the standard of the teaching force of the county, but has worked very earnestly to get the trustees to furnish better houses and more comfortable seats for the pupils. For this latter at he certainly deserves the commendation of all friends of education.

Misses Clay Widdoughy and Lillie Wilburn are teaching the public schools on Spruce in a very satisfactory manner. This is their first year in this line.

Miss Sallie Berkeley is progressing nicely with her school at Howard's Mill. The attendance is small, but uniform, and the work is thorough.

The school children are always glad to see Mr. Groves coming. He invariably has some pleasant in store for them.

This train will leave after the close of the races each day, arriving at Georgetown in time to connect with trains going south on the Southern roads for Nicholasville, Danville, Versailles and Lawrenceburg.

"Young Man, Go West!"

The President has issued his proclamation throwing open to settlement about 2,000,000 acres of land, recently purchased by the Government from the Iowa, Kickapoo, Potawatomi, and the Sac and Fox tribes of Indians, in Indian Territory, which is bounded proper, on the north by the Canadian river, on the east by the Canadian river, on the south by the Canadian river. The western boundary being within eight miles of Guthrie, the capital and commercial metropolis of the territory, with a population of about 10,000.

These lands are well watered, having the water fork of the Canadian River running through the center with many tributaries of the Canadian and Cimarron rivers, upon which are fine bodies of the different varieties of timber, and in point of fertility, unsurpassed by any land in the United States. There are now not less than ten thousand people on the border, awaiting the hour, 12 o'clock to-day, arrive, so that they can go in and take possession of 160 acres of this valuable land.

Persons going into this territory before 12 o'clock to-day are called "sooners," and will not be entitled to the benefit of the provisions of the act giving to actual settlers a homestead.

Some ten days ago Mr. G. B. Turley mislaid two large mules from his place, two miles east of town. As each were branded with a large "A" on the left jaw, he had no thought that they were stolen, but supposed they had wandered off. For two or three days he searched for them without success. He finally heard that two strangers had been seen in the neighborhood, and he then began to suspect them, and believed the thieves had fled to Tennessee.

On Saturday Sheriff Ballou received a letter from Knoxville saying that he had arrested George and Walter Berkeley, who had in their possession two mules answering the description of Turley's lost animals. On Sunday Mr. Turley and Mr. S. B. White went to Knoxville to identify the mules, and returned with the prisoners, who were placed in jail until the meeting of Circuit Court next week. The Berkleys claim to be from Mt. Sterling. They are both young men and seem to be green in the business.—[Richmond Register.]

These young men are sons of Allen Berkeley, who died some six or seven years ago. They have heretofore borne good reputations, and this is the first time they have been in trouble. They waived an examining trial and were held in $650 bond.

THE ADVOCATE.

HARRIS & MASON, Proprietors.

STERLING, TUESDAY, SEPT 22, 1891

FOR PRESIDENT.
GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
JOHN G. CARLISLE,
Of Kentucky.

We hear a wide-spread complaint especially among our farmer friends, that their fortunes instead of settling at home. Has it ever occurred to these same complainants that the great West is filled with railroads that have opened up a thousand and one avenues for business, whilst our State is filled with a class of men who oppose all progress in this direction, and thus deliberately cut off the young man the many opportunities that the great West delights in holding out to him. Is it to be wondered at that the boys are going West?

Several gentlemen were discussing the refusal of the Magistrates to submit the proposition to vote aid to the Midland R. R., when one took occasion to say: "The one reason I am against the new Constitution is that it will not let me help to vote a tax on my dear old stony fellows, who by their miserly instincts have managed to scrape together some money, and so to themselves think it their duty to stand in the way of all progress." Another said: "The one reason all others that I am for it, is that it cuts down the number of Justices of the Peace, and I hope to live to see the day when those that it does leave to us will be only a remnant of what has been." They both only want the road.

The board of Magistrates met on Wednesday, at 9 o'clock, p. m., to consider a proposition from the Kentucky Midland Railroad Company, to extend their road from North Middletown or Sharpsburg, to this place, if the county would vote a subscription to aid them in so doing. Mr. V. L. Clark, on behalf of the R. R. Company, presented substantially the following proposition:

"For a subscription on the part of the county of $75,000 in 30 year bonds bearing five per cent, the company proposes to build within three years from Jan. 1, 1892, a standard gauge road from some point within the county of North Middletown or Sharpsburg, and run cars on it to this city; and for a subscription of $50,000 to extend said road within the same time to a junction with the K. U. railroad at or east of Indian Fields; the bonds to be issued for each section when completed and in operation. The bonds to be paid at par, with accrued interest, at the option of the county, any time after ten years from their issuance, and the road not to be completed before its completion. Mr. Clark further agreed that his company would enter into a contract allowing the county to transfer its subscription to other county provided the M. C. failed to comply with its contract: within a reasonable time." Speeches were made for and against the proposition, and upon a vote being taken the result stood as follows:

FOR SUBSCRIPTION.
Esqs. J. T. Highland, H. L. Jones, R. B. Crooks.

AGAINST SUBSCRIPTION.

Esqs. J. W. Morris, W. H. Prewitt, R. W. Barrow, L. N. Horton, E. E. Keith, J. F. Richardson, J. T. Chase, W. A. Durham, Jno. A. Thompson. We believe the gentlemen who voted against the submission of the proposition were honest in their convictions that they were acting for the best interest of the county. But we also believe they exhibited very poor judgment. We think too, that a proposition which they have seen that a proposition such as was presented, was properly guarded, so that the peoples' interest would not be jeopardized. After they had done their duty and understood it, their duty ended, and the people should be allowed to say whether or not they want to burden themselves with a tax. Still the majority of the magistrates, who are all honest men, thought otherwise, and though we may be sorely disappointed in their inability to see this matter as we do, we are not disposed for one moment to question or the careful consideration of the best interest of their constituents.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Good grooming brings comfort to horse and profit to owner.

Charleston, 2:15, is now the fastest of the get of Bourbon Wilkes.

There were seventy-five trotting meetings in the United States last week.

When Allerton trotted in 2:10 he carried five ounces forward and three ounces behind.

Allerton is still king, after having the same work as Nelson, 2:10, for a week. He loved the stallion record last Saturday to 2:04.

Pat Downing's 2:13, at Independence, on the 4th inst., is not only the fastest mile by a new trotter, but is the fastest record ever made by a stallion the season he first entered the 2:30 list.

Kentucky still keeps somewhere near the front. Nancy Hanks and Monbars have been doing some phenomenal work away from home, besides several that have won great fame in the Kentucky Circuits.—(Kansas City Live Stock Indicator.)

Under the new rules Electioneer now has seventy-eight standard trotters and one pacer to his credit. George Wilkes has sixty-five trotters and seven pacers; Blue Bull seventy-five trotters and six pacers; Happy Medium fifty-nine trotters and three pacers.

Beatrice, by Cuyler, is represented on the turf this year by two faster trotters in the first and second generation than any other mare. She is the dam of Prodigal, 2:17, and her son Paragonage is the sire of Allx, three-year-old record 2:16. She is also the dam of Piron, that made a record of 2:14 a few years ago.

"Judges, I can't hold this horse," said a driver in a 2:30 class at Dubuque, Iowa, a few days ago when the jockey was taken to task by the occupants of the judges' stand for persisting in leading the pole horse. "Twenty-five dollars will put strength in you; arys, perhaps," replied the judge, and thereafter there was no more jockeying in scoring for that race.

Almost Albrecht is a late addition to Aberdeen's 2:30 list. He took his record of 2:24, at Omaha, Neb., a few days since losing the first heat. He won the second, third and fourth in 2:25, 2:29, 2:30. His dam is Brightness, Almont, second dam Bloom, by McKee's Ashland, (to be sold at 4th Bros., sale at Mt. Sterling, Ky. October 8 and 9); third dam Lady Kay, by Toronto Chief, saddle record 2:44, sire of Thomas Jefferson 2:23 third dam by Old Kentucky, said to be thoroughbred; fourth dam by Mrs. Almont Aberdeen, 2:24 was bred by Gen. W. T. Withers and belongs to H. T. Halliday, Esq., N.Y. He was originally christened Rhoter.

The trotting we is not confined to the track, but useful on every hand. On the road freight; on the farm he does the work of a mule, plowing, harrowing and hauling heavy loads. In cities he pulls carriages, milk wagons, buggies, omnibuses, and express wagons, and is found in dispensable many other places where nothing but fast horses can be used. Horses make trotting race horses are about in every hundred, and the mule breeds a common mare to a big bred horse and fails to get a 2:30 runner need not be disappointed has some assurance of a nice tier that will be worth three colts a scrub horse. What could a foalster be sold for? It would be worth $200, while a scrub wale for $100, and perhaps a good use, and cost the same to raise.

The followings from this county were at Cynthiana trot last week: Dr. put had his fine young mare Lady, that he sent for a record. Shined a mark of 2:36. The track was, being very soft. This mare George Steck, and will take a 2:30 on a good track. Besos had three heat, Folly, Knyl and Tracy. Folly started in 1st Tuesday, and was beaten 4 York Central, 2:18; in a very close, in 2:21; 2:24. Folly stalks on Friday, and obtained a 1:21. She is likely to trot between 2:20 before the sale. Tracy tried on Friday and made a 2:34. Tracy is fast and has his record on a good track without going down in his at Wednesday night and strained his legs so

'GUILTY,' SAYS THE JURY

In the Case of Geo. F. Green, and Confinement in the Penitentiary for Life, is the Sentence.

The trial of Geo. F. Green for murder, mentioned last week, continued with unabated interest throughout the court-room being crowded at every session. On Wednesday the court and jury visited the scene of the murder, but the woods at the place where Davidson was shot had been cleared away, so that nothing of importance was gained by the visit. The Court convened Thursday morning, when the opening speech for the defense was made by Hon. J. N. Nesbitt, who made an earnest and eloquent plea for his client. Following Mr. Nesbitt came C. W. Nesbitt, for the Commonwealth. This was an able and ingenious presentation of the testimony adduced in this trial, and reflects great credit upon the legal knowledge of the County Attorney.

Just before the hour of noon, Mr. Nesbitt concluded his speech and Z. T. Young, of Mt. Sterling, began his speech for the defense, but, before he had finished, Court adjourned for dinner. In the afternoon, Mr. Young resumed and made an able and interesting plea for the defendant. Next in order came Allie Young, the brilliant young attorney of Morehead, representing the State. He spoke over two hours, and as the people here remember his former able speech in this case two years ago, every inch of space was occupied in the court-room long before court opened. The ladies of the town and community turned out en masse to hear an eloquent attorney. The close attention they gave him in the heated and crowded room was the best evidence that they were not disappointed. It is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Young delivered one of the finest speeches ever heard in the court-house. There was a careful resume of all the evidence in the case. It was a fine combination of logic, eloquence and legal knowledge, devoid of acrimony or vituperation, and was a most able presentation of the testimony as viewed by the counsel for the Commonwealth. Mr. Young is yet a young man, and certainly has a bright future before him. Col. H. L. Stone, of Louisville, followed Mr. Young in a speech of three hours. His speech was an able and exhausting presentation of his client's interests. Friday evening M. M. Redwine made the closing speech representing the Commonwealth. Mr. Redwine entered upon the discussion calmly and dispassionately, and in a most able manner he represented the interests of the Commonwealth. He is an able prosecutor, and this speech was up to the usual standard of excellence. Taken all together, counsel on both sides acquitted themselves admirably. The case was submitted to the jury

In order to close partnership, Messrs. Bean Bros., will, October 5th and 9th, sell their ENTIRE stock of about eighty head of stallions, mares and young things. EVERYTHING will be sold, thus giving purchasers all the advantages of an Administrator's sale. The stock will be sold at what it will bring, not "fixed in" by the owners. The horses are not only of "gilt-edge" pedigree, but many of them are BUREAU trotters and fine lookers. The foundation of this stud was selected with great care and expense from the noted establishment of Gen. W. T. Withers, Lexington, Ky., one of the greatest breeding studs in the world. The blood of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Strathmore, Almont, Belmont, Happy Medium, Aberdeen, Cassius M. Clay and other noted sires represented. FOLK (producing) dams and BUREAU young things from same. This sale furnishes the opportunity of a lifetime. TERMS, 1st MONTHLY, 2nd BANKABLE PAPER, 6 PER CENT INTEREST. Send early for catalogues and examine stock beforehand. Sale held at "Maple Hill" Farm, 1-1/2 miles from Mt. Sterling, Ky., on Lexington Pike. Mt. Sterling is 30 miles east of Lexington on the C. & O. R. R. Sale begins promptly at 10 a. m. each day.

at 4 o'clock, Friday afternoon, and they retired to the jury room. The jury was out all night, and up to eleven o'clock Saturday morning. Many conjectures were indulged in as to the verdict, if any, that the jury would render. All doubts and conjectures were set aside however, when the jury filed slowly down the aisle of the court room at exactly ten minutes past eleven and halted in front of the judge's stand. In answer to Judge Cooper's inquiry, "Have you found a verdict, gentlemen?" the foreman, in a voice not unmarked with emotion, said: "We have, Your Honor." "Read the verdict," said Judge Cooper. Then Clerk Capt. W. P. Comer read in faltering tones: "We, the jury, find the defendant, Geo. F. Green, guilty, as charged in the indictment, and fix his punishment at hard labor in the penitentiary for life." The only sign of emotion evinced by Green as the terrible words which took from him his liberty for life were being read, was a slight twitching of the muscles of the face and nervously pulling his beard. After reading of the verdict, Judge Cooper ordered the Sheriff to take Green to jail. Meanwhile, his counsel announced their intention to ask for a new trial, and at once began preparation of their papers. The plea of the attorneys for the defense, asking for a new trial, was overruled and the only hope is now to take the case to the Court of Appeals.

Court reassembled at one o'clock, and after some routine business, Judge Cooper said: "George Green, stand up." The prisoner arose firmly, and after the usual lecture the Judge said: "It is the sentence of this court that you be taken to Frankfort and confined in the State prison at hard labor for the rest of your natural life."

This ends one of the most noted trials that ever took place in this county. George Green prior to this trouble bore a good reputation, and was considered a man of undoubted courage. So when he was first arrested, people were slow to believe that he would resort to such methods as shooting from ambush. He was first tried before Judge C. W. Goodpastor, and lost.

the judgment of that court the evidence was not sufficient to bind him over. However when the grand jury met he was indicted for murder in the first degree. The Sheriff was ordered to rearrest him, so the latter went to his house and Green refused to come to town with the Sheriff, but said he would come in and surrender himself. This he did, and the Sheriff then accompanied Green to Mt. Sterling to see Judge Cooper in order to ascertain whether his case was a bailable one. Judge Cooper decided it was, and Green was admitted to bail in the sum of $10,000. Green was tried at the next session of the court, but the result was a hung jury. The trial was postponed the two following sessions, called again the second day of this term of the court, with the above mentioned result. Green was ably defended and vigorously prosecuted, and thus ends one of the most interesting trials ever held in this court house. Green's counsel will probably take the case to the Court of Appeals.—(Owingsville Outlook.)

THE ADVOCATE.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The Louisville Conference of the Methodist Church South was in session at Cadiz, Trigg county, last week.

The Bank of Lyons, supposed to be one of the strongest in Kansas, made an assignment Wednesday. It is believed the assets will equal the liabilities.

It is said the Peasants of South Russia, frenzied by starvation, are murdering each other for little or no gain, and the situation is one of extreme desperation.

The campaign in Ohio was opened by Governor Campbell, at Sidney, on Thursday. An immense crowd of people participated in the demonstration accorded him.

Lieutenant-Governor Jones, "the pays the freight," has announced his opposition to the ticket nominated by the New York Democrats, and says he will work to secure its defeat.

It is rumored in Washington that the President is seriously considering the appointment of Col. W. O. Bradley of Kentucky, to succeed Secretary Proctor in the War Department.

Col. H. Clay King, the Memphis lawyer who murdered David H. Poston, a prominent attorney of the same city, was on Thursday sentenced to be hanged Nov. 8th. His counsel gave notice of appeal, which will cause a stay of proceedings.

The opinion is expressed at Washington that the postponed libel suit against the Chilean steamer Itata will be prosecuted in spite of the fact that the Congressionalists were victorious and are now in charge of the Chilean Government.

Senor Marceno, acting agent for the National party of Hawaii, has laid before the President a letter from Honolulu, declaring positively that England is planning to take possession of the Hawaiian kingdom. The letter has been referred to Secretary Blaine.

It is rumored negotiations are pending by which the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and the Atchafalaya, Topoka and Santa Fe are to be consolidated. The deal will add 100,000 miles to the Santa Fe, which is already the longest system of railroads in the world.

The Democratic party has caused a meeting to give up their charter. The members declare they want to get out of the atmosphere of misguidance and disappointed politicians who are using the Alliance to disrupt the Democratic party.—(Courier-Journal.)

The Massachusetts Republican State Convention met at Boston Wednesday, and nominated the following ticket: Governor, ex-Congressman Charles H. Allen; Lieutenant Governor, W. H. Hale; Secretary of State, W. M. Olin; Treasurer, George A. Marlen; Attorney General, Albert E. Pillsbury; Auditor, John W. Kimball.

The anti-sub-Treasury and anti-third party Alliance convention at St. Louis Wednesday endorsed the F. W. Thorp platform, and condemned Marcus. The convention decided to appoint a committee to meet and submit to the General Council of the Alliance at Indianapolis in November the objections of the convention to the Ocean platform, with a view to patching up differences.

Reports from the flooded district of Spain make the situation worse by far than the information heretofore received has indicated. In and around Consuegra alone the damage is estimated at $25,000,000, while the loss of life is awful. Whole families were drowned in their homes, and in one house twenty-seven corpses were found. It is said that more than two thousand lives were lost in the flood.

The Nebraska Democratic State Convention, at Grand Island, Thursday, was harmonious and enthusiastic despite the predicted split over Gov. Boyd's veto of the railroad tariff bill, before a partisan court ousted him from the chair to which the people had elected him. Boyd was endorsed and a platform demanding a tariff for revenue only and the free coinage of silver was adopted. Judge Broody was nominated for the Supreme Court and F. A. Brogan for Regent of the State University.

The New York State Democratic Convention nominated Roswell P. Flower, for Governor, over Alfred C. Chaplin, by a vote of 334 to 43. The following nominations were also made: For Lieutenant Governor, William F. Sheehan; Secretary of State, Frank Rice; Controller, Frank Campbell; Treasurer, Elliott E. Dauforth; Attorney General, Simon Bonendale; Surveyor and Engineer, Martin Schenck. Immediately after his nomination Mr. Flower sent Governor Hill the following letter:

"Sir: I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Fifty-second Congress from the Twelfth District of the State of New York, to take effect to-day. Very respectfully,

ROSWELL P. FLOWER.
The Late Financial Editor.

As an illustration of the close commercial relation and interdependence of nations, nothing could be more instructive than the late depression and stagnation of trade. It is wonderful how sensitive the world is to the touch of any disturbing element in finance—more sensitive than to the call for sympathy or patriotism or religion. A shock comes in a distant trading post, upsetting the relations of trade, and immediately there is a tremor in London, on the Bourse, and through Wall street. Commerce is like water in its mobility to and tendency to seek a level.

Ever since last October markets have been in a cramped and uneasy condition; to-day they are settling and gathering impetus for free, perhaps feverish movement. It was about October that the alarm came through London from as far off a country as the Argentine Republic. Trouble of a serious character was brewing. This nation had suddenly taken the notion that it was grown up, as an old time fog would say, and wanted store clothes. It was pining for "modern improvements." It hadn't the money to pay for them, saw no chance to get it in its own territory, and resorted to foreign lenders. As usual, the English were ready with plenty of money, and all they wanted was securities. The Argentines blantly wrote up the paper and gave it for hard cash from the Britons. Then they began building railways, harbors, school-houses, public buildings, markets, bridges, theatres, hospitals, paying streets, and setting up new banks. This started in 1881. The Republic had not borrowed extensively before that time. Last beginning with the year 1866, and ending with 1889, it had negotiated through the Bankers of London for $100,000,000 through other firms. But this was not all. The separate provinces of the Argentine State had borrowed $100,000,000, municipalities $90,000,000, and the Government itself had had loans on railways; the whole amount of direct loans to the country and its political divisions amounting to $500,000,000. Add to this a great load of "securities"—worthless paper issued by the Government, the amount of $600,000,000; then put in $500,000,000 of mortgages secured, or rather guaranteed, by the Government, and we reach the tremendous total of $1,600,000,000 of debt. Well, other countries have had debts. France after the Prussian war owed five billion francs, which was paid with ease; at the end of our own Civil war we owed three billion dollars, which was being rapidly paid up, besides continuing the pay-roll of soldiers under the name of pensions. But the poor Argentines had this huge debt on a population of only millions of people, only a small number of whom had an income. Of course the deluge had to come soon. Interest was due, and enough was due each year to make a large enough public debt. This interest could be paid in only one way. This was to borrow more money; that is, to borrow the trick of the small boy who must be "satisfied" to pay the one to whom he is all his marbles in debt. England saw the situation through a flash of revolution in Bremen, Ayres, which revented the complete ruin of the treasury. Naturally, Argentine securities could not be allowed to drop flat, and the way to prevent this was to sell other securities held in England. American paper began to go, and Wall street began to get panicky. When Wall street trembles the whole country must shake, and shake it did. A rumor came that the great house of Baring Bros. was in danger, and a fatal panic was averted only by the activity of the Bank of England in negotiating a loan of eleven millions sterling for that firm, and securing itself by raising the rate of discount to six per cent.

The effect in this country was not to lessen the amount of money on hand, but to take it out of circulation. There was a universal lack of confidence, each putting away all the cash he could and waiting to see what his neighbor would do. All lines were tightly drawn, and to aggravate the situation there was a large cotton crop, besides a surplus of two million bales from the year before. Cotton, would not sell, except at very low prices, and not much money was put into circulation. On account of the rise of prices of commodities who could do so sent their money to Europe, to import goods before the new scale of duties went into use, thereby to get the advantage of increased prices. With all this, the wonder is that the country was so able and so energetic as to bear the burden, not that trade did not wake into new life.

But somehow trade did not revive. Confidence was renewed, and the channels of commerce were again opened. Again came a check, in a feeling of insecurity upon the question of free coinage. Men did not like to venture their money unless they knew it would retain its value. If there should be an amount of money exceeding the demand, they said, the value of money must fall like any other commodity. This, however, has abated to some extent. The President, in a recent speech, has pledged himself to veto any measure looking to the free coinage of silver. There is not an absolute guarantee in a veto, of course, but it shows that a large number of the party in power, through the voice of their President, express themselves against unlimited money.

We seem, then, to be in a clear financial atmosphere. Our crops are enormous; those in Europe are short, guaranteeing good prices. The German Empire has removed the prohibition of American pork, opening to us a large market there. The only fear is that our next Democratic Congress will feel its wealth to such an extent that it will scatter it with a Monte Cristian carelessness.

Louisville Tobacco Market, Furnished by Clover & Durrett—Louisville Tobacco Warehouse.

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 3,395 hds., with receipts for the same period of 1,496 hds.; sales on our market since Jan'y 1st, amount to 128,781 hds. Sales of the crop of 1890 on our market to date 85,418 hds.

Our market for burley tobacco this week, except for the fine grades of fillers, has been dull, irregular and decidedly weaker, and we find it necessary to lower quotations on low and medium grades. The offerings have been large composed mainly of common grades with the per cent of rejections unusually heavy. September weather conditions have been all that could be wished for, for the crop on the hill and rapid progress has been made in many localities in getting the crop under cover, while in other sections the crop was late in maturing, and housing has been limited; but taking the state at large no doubt half the crop is off the hill, and each day of good weather is adding rapidly to this per cent. The following quotations fairly represent our market for burley tobacco.

Trash (dark) or damaged tobacco $2 to $3.

Common trash - - - - - $4 to $8.

Common lugs not colored, - $3 to $5.

Common lugs, - - - - - $6 to $10.

Common leaf, - - - - - $5 to $7.

Medium to good leaf, - - - $7 to $12.

Good to fine fillers, - - - $12 to $22.

Select wrappery tobacco, - $25 to $35.

BIG CROPS!

THE prospects now are that the year 1891 will go down to history as the largest crop year the United States has ever known. But, nevertheless, the wise farmer and mechanic will look ahead and say: "What I make this year I may lose next by bad crops; so in justice to my family and myself I must buy my goods where the dollar goes the farthest." And right here

Schradzki, "The Leader of Low Prices for Best Goods" has something to say to you that will not only interest your pocket-book, but also that of your neighbor, your friend, your relatives; in other words, your sisters, your cousins and your aunts.

Who is Schradzki? Why, he is a new clothier who has taken the old A. Broh stand, on Mayville Street, where he has now the largest and finest clothing store in Mt. Sterling.

KENDALL BROS. & Co., R. S. HUDSON, AUCT. FLEMINGSBURG, KY.

The Economist Wrought Steel Range.

Made by Bridgford & Co., Louisville, Ky., and sold by W. W. Reed, Mt. Sterling, Ky. It is the advantage it has over all other ranges. It burns less fuel, and will turn coal or wood, or coal and wood mixed, into water. It will heat quicker than any other range, and is much easier to keep clean. It takes up very little room for its size, and the doors to open and warmers are all in front. It has a large copper water tank, that holds twelve buckets of water, and supplies you with hot water at all times, night or day, throws out much less heat in the room, and thereby more comfortable for those in the kitchen. It is warranted to give perfect satisfaction on thorough trial, or no sale. We give a few testimonials below.

W. W. REED, Sir:

We have used the Wrought Steel Economist Range for three or four months, and find it nearer perfection, by far, than any other range we had or saw. It is all more than you say for it, and we heartily recommend to those in need of a range.

Mrs. BETTIE L. HOWARD, Mrs. J. O. EMBRY, MT. STERLING, KY.

Dear Sir:

The Economist Wrought Steel Range purchased of you some time since, has proven to be the best I have ever had. It heats quicker, burns less fuel, either of coal or wood, and is in fact all that we could desire of a range.

SHAVING DEAD MEN.

Experience of One Barber of This Growth Underlying.

"Fifty cents" said the jolly looking fat man who had occupied the barber's chair and it was for over half an hour. "I couldn't shave it only the hair had been left a little longer. I had a goodly number of men in the shop, and I was in a hurry to get on my feet and wash my hands and face."

"I was left a legacy once," timidly suggested the barber as he lathered my face, and as I made no objection his low conversation gradually crept on into a story of this remarkable occurrence. "Yes, and I was nearly cheated out of it too. But I was too early for them. It was a man I had been shaving for I don't know how many years, and he told me that I was to shave him after he died and it was his wish that I should do so. I had always liked the man, and I was not averse to the idea."

"He had four of them, who one very short the first week, then one a little later for a week, and so on to the fourth. When he died I used to say out loud, 'Your hair is getting a little long, sir.' Yes, but I haven't the time today," he would say, and would tip me half a dollar. The next day he would put on his shirt and I trimmed his hair up to the throat. Now I was doing him as he had said I was to do, and he was very much pleased. I had always liked the man, and I was not averse to the idea."

"When he died the first time I was in his will, and I was to fix him up. But his brother, who was one of his heirs, tried to cheat me out of it by not having the corpse shaved at all. I just heard of it the night before the funeral, and when the undertaker had gone away we turned the body over to me. I was a pretty difficult job, and my hands were still for weeks after, because the hair had matted and ran on the floor. But I got my money."

"He said he would have many dead men!" "Perhaps so," I answered. "It is not the kind of job to run after, it is difficult too. You cannot turn the man's head around, and you have to get into all sorts of positions to make a good job of it. But if you make a little bit of the skin being so tight, and the hair so long, and so on. No, I wouldn't shave a dead man, unless it was to oblige the friends of some old customer."—New York Advertiser.

An Inevitable Conflict Pending.

Today, as yesterday, as tomorrow, and as for a long time to come, the situation of France and Germany forms the great subject of anxiety, which is lodged upon the meditation of all European statesmen. At no other point is it foreseen that war can break out. Russia has great ambitions and is very strong in desire, but Russia is for years doomed merely to cherish ambitions, for she cannot realize them single handed, and it does not appear likely that she will ever be able to do so. She would be able to give the signal of war, for if she did she would be left to herself and would be speedily crushed. It could be solely as the result of a general war, that she could obtain her share, and in the present state of her alliances she could take that share only from France, so that a general war alone could give her what she desired, and if she were left single handed, she would not be able to overcome France.

Neither Austria nor England dream of war. It is therefore still, as twenty years ago, France and Germany who could occasion war, because, whatever may be alleged, conflict may be declared, or war may be commenced, these two nations alone were ever first for their own sake, and for the rest, and it is in order to be able to prevent an everlasting Franco-German enmity, Europe could now promise to fold her arms, and afterwards, when the war was over, as arbitrator, war would break out to support the Franco-German enmity, for the fatality of war hounds and cowards both nations—see Howitz on the war.

Pre-historic studies.

Most of the knowledge of the old method of historical writing resulted from the fact that the world was looked at from a statistical point of view, or as if a picture of the world were a series of detached pictures of things that were. The human race and the terrestrial world were tacitly assumed to have been always very much the same, and that one age was not much like another, and when comparisons were made it was after a manner as different from the modern comparative method as alchemy was different from chemistry.

As men's studies had not yet been turned in such a direction as to enable them to approach the study of the results that are wrought by the cumulative action of minute causes, they were disposed to put too much importance in the events of a single day, and the agency of powerful individuals—which upon any sound theory must be regarded as of great importance—they not only magnified, but rendered it unintelligible when they sought to transform human beings into demigods.

It now appears that the way in which our forefathers treated history was part and parcel of the way in which they regarded the world. What is history or in the physical sciences, they found themselves confronted by a seemingly chaotic mass of facts with which they could deal only in a very haphazard manner and in small detached groups.—Professor John Fiske in Popular Science Monthly.
